Board of Directors Regular Meeting

Thursday, October 17, 2019 at 10:00am

CIP Conference Room, Bldg. B, DPW Compound, Upper Tumon

Meeting Minutes

I. Call to order:

Chairperson Evelyn Duenas called the meeting to order at 10:07am.

II. Roll Call:

GRTA Board Members present: Chairperson Evelyn Duenas, Vice-Chairperson John Leon Guerrero, Secretary Alejo Sablan and Director David Arentz.

III. Review of Minutes:

Chairperson Duenas motioned to change verbiage from Temporary to Acting on September 12, 2019 meeting minutes. Motion to approve by Vice Chairman John Leon Guerrero and Director David Arentz second it. Motion was approved with no objections-4 yeas and 0 no.

IV. Old Business:

A. Non-appropriated Funds (NAF): Interim Executive Manager Babauta advised the Board that GRTA has been spending NAF funds for operational expenditures such as small parts and vehicle repairs (light bulbs, oil, etc.). Interim Executive Manager Babauta also asked the board to review proposed GRTA Resolution 2020-002 which require the Board's approval on any expenditures that GRTA wishes to spend relative to operational requirements using NAF funds. Resolution was approved and signed by Acting Chairperson Evelyn Duenas, Acting Vice-Chairperson John Leon Guerrero, Director Alejo Sablan and Director David Arentz.

B. Ombudsman: Staff Member Pilar Carbullido explained that we are unable to hire an Ombudsman because such title does not exist in the FY20 budget. However, with the 2018-2019 FTA grant, GRTA is allowed to hire a Program Coordinator I who will be tasked to perform as an Ombudsman and as a Quality Assurance Coordinator to assess the entire transit operations. Moreover, Interim Executive Manager Babauta explained that he would like the Quality Assurance Coordinator to evaluate the functions and the contracts of GRTA. He also explained that as GRTA moves on with its duties and responsibilities, it is imperative that program requirements and contracts are being followed and enforced.

V. New Business:

- A. RFP Lease/Purchase Vehicles: Interim Executive Manager Babauta informed the board when he came on board with GRTA there was only 7 vehicles operating with 6 Para-Transit routes and 6 Fixed routes. GRTA was forced to lease the contractors vehicles. GRTA has been able to work closely with its Maintenance Contractor and we now currently have 16 vehicles operating. The Interim Executive Manager stressed to the board that the 16 vehicles that GRTA currently have are being utilized extensively. In order to maintain consistency with transit operations, we need additional vehicles, either to lease or purchase. The Chief Planner is conducting an analysis whether it is more economical to lease or purchase. When the results are available, Mr. Babauta will report back to the Board. He further explained that he proposed to purchase 10 new vehicles in the beginning of this administration, but unfortunately it is now just being advertised for bidding. Mr. Babauta stated those 10 new vehicles will probably be available around August 2020.
- B. Bus Routes/Operations: Staff Member Mark Crisostomo stated to the board that GRTA will be adding another fixed route down south which will be called Southern Express. He explained to the Board that the route will go from Agat Mayor's office to Inarajan Public Health up to Talafofo Mayor's office down Cross Island road, Santa Rita, and back to Agat. Staff Member Crisostomo stated this additional route will shorten both Blueline 2 and Greenline routes to about 1 hour and 30 minutes. Staff Member Crisostomo proposed to Mr. Babauta to have 10 fixed routes instead of the 6 fixed routes we currently have. Mr. Babauta explained that once the 10 new vehicles arrive there will be more flexibility to add more routes which will reduce the time people will have to wait. Chairperson Evelyn Duenas addressed her concerns to the board that there should be more 12-17 passenger vehicles down south due to buses being full. Vice-Chairperson John Leon Guerrero also shared his concerns regarding lack of buses to transport the public in a timely manner. Chairperson Duenas advised the Board that in order to move forward with any decisions GRTA needs to provide a plan on how to rectify the problem. Chairperson Duenas stated that the vehicles should be used to its maximum capacity to eliminate the wait time for the public. Mr. Babauta reassures the Board that GRTA is constantly looking for ways to meet the needs for the people of Guam.

VI. Executive Manager's Report:

- A. Budget: No discussions made. Board referred to handout.
- B. Bus Operations/Vehicles: Staff Member Mark Crisostomo stated all routes are running, 12 operational vehicles (7 Arbocs and 5 MV1 vans) for Para-Transit and Fixed routes. Staff Member Crisostomo informed the board GRTA currently has 11 Arbocs, 8 of which are operational and 12 MV1 vans which as of October 16, 2019, 9 are operational. Board referred to handout regarding GRTA's fleet status.

C. Status of Procurement Packages:

1. One Call-One Click Transportation Management System (TMS): GRTA is waiting for GSA to receive the final proposal from the vendor.
2. Bus Procurement: Bus Procurement opening date was extended to November for bid opening. GRTA is also requesting that instead of an 8 month delivery date, it'll be reduced to 6-months.
3. Vehicle Maintenance Contract: GSA is working to address the protest.

VII. Brief Overview:

A. Federal Grants: Staff Member Carbullido informed the board FY 2018 & FY 2019 grants total combined awarded is $3,919,839 (FY 2018 - $1,918,192 & FY 2019 - $2,001,647) which will cover Federal Programs, hiring of two Program Coordinator I, operations for Para-Transit, construction of the building and procure more buses. Staff Carbullido asked for the Board support the program proposal.

B. Budget/NAF: Previously discussed in Old Business.

VIII. Public Comments – 3 minutes per individual:

Ms. Ginger Porter: I reviewed the website of staffing pattern and organizational chart. I'm seeing a disconnect with the 2 documents. I'm wondering in regard to the enabling act that it talks about the Board hiring an Unclassified Administrative Assistant. She would like to know where that stands and if the Board will hire. My question is how many of these positions are Limited Term status on the organizational chart because it doesn't show.

Interim Executive Manager Babauta informed Ms. Ginger that there has been a big change with respect to the FY 2019/20 budget. Mr. Babauta stated he requested to the legislature for additional positions based on the requirements of the public law. For local budget GRTA does not have any Limited Term status. Mr. Babauta assured Ms. Porter that GRTA is hiring based on the mandates of the law. The website will be updated shortly.

IX. Executive Session: Secretary Sablan provided recorded minutes.

X. Adjournment:

Being that there were no further discussions, Chairperson Duenas adjourned the meeting at 11:42 AM.

Feminism, homosexuality and atheism are forms of extremism, according to Saudi Arabia

By Miriam Berger
The Washington Post

Over the weekend, Saudi Arabia's State Security released a video on Twitter listing feminism, homosexuality, atheism and more than three dozen other categories as forms of extremism.

"Don't forget that excess of anything at the expense of the homeland is considered extremism," the video warned according to Reuters, which first reported the story. Such "extremist behavior" is grounds for imprisonment and flogging, the government-aligned newspaper Al Watan reminded readers in a follow up report on Monday.

The classification came in stark contrast to the American ally's aims to rebrand itself as reforming some of its policies and welcoming western tourism and business.

By Tuesday, the oil-rich kingdom was distancing itself from the move.

First, the General Department for Counter Terrorism, which produced the animated video, deleted the tweet. Then Al Watan took down its Monday article. Finally, the head of Saudi's State Security told Saudi-owned Al Ekhabariya TV that the news was "baseless" and that the video had "many mistakes ...

Homosexuality and atheism have long been criminalized in the conservative Muslim kingdom. Both are already grounds for capital punishment.

defining extremism." The video, he said, was published by an unauthorized "individual."

That did not quell fears that the kingdom is seeking to expand and formalize its ways to silence dissent at a time when protests for reform are rocking other Arab countries, like Iraq and Lebanon.

"It looks like by announcing this that it's a warning to activists in the country that have been engaging in any open or closed discussion on these issues, whether it's atheism or homosexuality or the advancement of women in the country," said Philippe Nassif, advocacy director for the Middle East and North Africa at London-based Amnesty International. "It's meant to really chill any kind of movement that's been growing in Saudi for change."

Nassif posited that Saudi Arabia could have used the designation to try people in its notoriously harsh anti-terrorism courts. "We are concerned that this is a facade that's been constructed to continue a vicious crackdown in the kingdom," he said.

Homosexuality and atheism have long been criminalized in the conservative Muslim kingdom. Both are already grounds for capital punishment.

But the public equation of feminism with extremism in particular raised eyebrows now as Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman has made increasing women's rights a prominent part of efforts to retol the country's economy and attract foreign investors and tourists, even as he has overseen a widespread crackdown on political dissent and locked up feminist activists.

Hala al-Dosari, a Saudi scholar and activist, described the initial inclusion of feminism on the list as "institutionalizing the treatment that's [already been] happening to the women" and providing another formal basis for charges and arrests.

"It's trying to reshape the regulations and laws inside Saudi Arabia in a way to control public movements," she said. "The whole idea is trying to control the narrative, making sure that feminism is owned by the state or the agenda-setting power is in the hands of the leadership rather than the women's activists."

Trump's tax returns set up historic showdown

GUAM DAILY POST • SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 2019

WASHINGTON (The Washington Post) - President Donald Trump asked the Supreme Court on Thursday to stop a prosecutor's investigation of his personal finances, a bold assertion of presidential power that seeks a landmark decision from the nation's highest court.

The filing by the president's private lawyers represents a historical moment that tests the court's independence and highlights the Constitution's separation-of-powers design. It also marks a new phase in the investigations that have dogged Trump throughout his presidency and have culminated in an impeachment inquiry.

The case involves Manhattan District Attorney Cyrus Vance Jr.'s attempt to enforce a grand jury subpoena issued to the president's accountants for eight years of Trump's tax records.

Trump went to court to block the subpoena, making a broad claim that presidents are immune from investigation while in office. A district judge and a panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 2nd Circuit ruled against him, saying the subpoena was proper and the president's longtime accounting firm, Mazars USA, must comply.

Vance's office agreed to hold off on enforcing the subpoena if Trump's lawyers quickly asked the Supreme Court to hear the case this term.

The justices are not required to review the lower court's decision. But the chances that the high court will get involved increased Wednesday, when a separate appeals court in a separate case concluded Congress has a right to those same tax records.

IN THE HOT SEAT: President Donald Trump speaks at the opening ceremony of the Veterans Day Parade on Nov. 11 in New York City. Spencer Platt/Getty Images/Tribune News Service

The cases set up a potentially dramatic decision on presidential power like those the Supreme Court rendered against Presidents Richard M. Nixon and Bill Clinton. Both were unanimous rulings rejecting the their pleas, and suggest Trump might have trouble keeping the tax information from prosecutors and Congress.

It will come before a court that includes two Trump nominees, Justices Neil Gorsuch and Brett Kavanaugh. In addition, Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg in media interviews before the 2016 election criticized Trump's decision not to release his tax returns, as other presidential nominees had done.

"How has he gotten away with not turning over his tax returns?" Ginsburg said in an interview with CNN. "The press seems to be very gentle with him on that." After criticism, Ginsburg said she should not have commented on the candidate.

The court's decision on whether to grant Trump's requests to review the lower court decisions would likely come in time for a full hearing before the justices this term and a ruling in the coming presidential election year.

Trump has moved aggressively to block examination of his tax records, filing lawsuits against congressional committees, two banks and Mazars, which has said it would turn over the records if courts so order.

Other separation-of-powers cases that could reach the Supreme Court include Congress's effort to access redacted portions of special counsel Robert Mueller III's report on Trump's 2016 campaign and Russian interference in that election, and lawsuits alleging Trump's private businesses violate the emoluments clauses of the Constitution.

Vance has said his office needs the records for its investigation into alleged hush-money payments during the 2016 campaign to Stormy Daniels, an adult film actress, and former Playboy model Karen McDougal. Both women said they have had affairs with Trump, and Vance's office is examining whether any Trump Organization officials filed falsified business records, in violation of state law, related to the payments. Trump has denied the affairs and any wrongdoing.

Trump's attorney William Consovoy has argued that while in the White House, Trump has "temporary presidential immunity" not just from prosecution, but also from investigation. At the appeals court hearing in New York, Consovoy said in response to a judge's question that the president, for as long as he is in office, could not even be investigated for shooting someone on the streets of Manhattan.

The Justice Department filed a brief in support of the president, but it did not endorse Trump's assertion that he has absolute immunity from investigation. Instead, government lawyers said there are some instances when a local prosecutor might legally seek a president's documents - but this was not one of them.

Vance has rejected Trump's sweeping immunity claims, saying the president is seeking to "invent and enforce a new presidential 'tax return privilege'" that would bar anyone from seeing his returns. "No such privilege exists in the law," Vance's office said in court filings at the 2nd Circuit.

U.S. District Judge Victor Marrero in New York called Trump's theory "repugnant to the nation's governmental structure and constitutional values."

A unanimous panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 2nd Circuit issued a more subdued ruling against Trump.

Chief Judge Robert Katzmann, writing for the majority, noted the Supreme Court's 1974 decision ordering the White House to turn over Nixon's audiotapes during a criminal investigation of his aides.

Trump "has not persuasively explained why, if executive privilege did not preclude enforcement of the subpoena issued in Nixon, the Mazars subpoena must be enjoined despite seeking no privileged information and bearing no relation to the president's performance of his official functions."
